

I would if I could

Gently as the sun set says good night to the trees and the evening shadows fall Tomorrow is upon us, and another day is near but it's not meant for all

Silently the autumn leaves, they fall to the ground winter is near The cold wind blows, and the sky is gray and color disappears.

CHORUS

I would have lassoed the wind, before it ever blew your way
I would have caught the rain before it ever fell
I would have made the waves of the sea roll gently to your shore
I would, if I could.

Tell me, why does a rose have so many thorns?
Yet is so beautiful?
And the song of the night bird seem so much sweeter?
Oh I don't know

The sun has set and we've said goodnight and now the night bird will sing his song Soon spring will com and bring new life and we will go on.
